DRAMATIC CRITIC OF L. A. GRAPHIC

New Position of Maitland Davis, Formerly of Republican Staff

Maitland Davis, former dramatic critic of The Republican, has become associated with the editorial staff of the Los Angeles Graphic. Mr. Davis, who is admittedly one of the most skillful dramatic critics in the west, will follow this line of work with the weekly publication. His connection with the Graphic will not interfere with his other interests and he will continue as soloist of a large and fashionable church, besides retaining his studio in Blanchard hall.

Mr. Davis has been most successful on the coast. He had charge of the publicity of "Damaged Goods," which has been running day and night for the past six weeks in Los Angeles.

MURPHY RETURNS FROM THE COAST

Ed P. Murphy, one of the best known men on the Pacific coast, actively engaged in selling coast goods to the trade, has returned to Arizona, after a trip to San Francisco. Mr. Murphy has for twenty years traveled for the M. J. B. Coffee Company of San Francisco. While in that city he attended a banquet given to forty men, principally heads of the M. J. Brandenstein Company. The president of this organization, M. J. Brandenstein, one of the biggest financial men in the west, was in attendance.

Mr. Murphy reports work started on the new M. J. B. building and it will probably be completed next August. It will consist of six stories and a basement, and will cover a space of ground 150x150 feet. The rapid growth of this big coffee importing and distributing house necessitated the new structure. He also reports a growing demand for the M. J. B. coffees in the city of Phoenix. Elita Gifford Young being the local representative.

AMUSEMENTS

COSTELLO STARS AT THE EMPRESS

"The Man who couldn't beat God" is a story of a man who fights his conscience in order to forget a murder. Although he strives by work and right living in a new country and among new acquaintances to overcome the thoughts of his crime, the spectre of the murdered man confronts him at every turn. Finally attracted to the scene where he bartered his soul, a vision of his victim materializes and points an accusing finger. Unable to stand the strain longer, he falls on the spot, where he is found by the police, he began the fight with his conscience.

"The Man who Couldn't Beat God" is the second prize winner in the New York Evening Sun-Vitaphone Scenario Contest, and was written by Harold Goldsmid Calhoun.

Maurice Costello enacted the principal character and gives a convincing portrayal of a man who fights for fame and wins, to lose in his fight with the Creator. The Vitaphone Company has released "The Man who Couldn't Beat God" under that stamp of quality, the Blue Ribbon Trade Mark, as a five part drama. Matinee today.

"The Voice in the Fog" which marks the initial appearance of Donald Brian, who for years has starred on Broadway and with an international reputation, makes his debut before the screen.

Mr. Brian has proved himself an equal star in the silent drama. "The Voice in the Fog" furnishing him an excellent vehicle for displaying his ability of which he is master in excellent style.

The South American travel pictures are also included with the above program, which will be shown for the last time tonight.

Tomorrow's new bill promises to be a treat, introducing two stars in one production, Hazel Dawn and John Mason in "The Fatal Card" with the Paramount Weekly.

Hilda Spong in "Divorced" at Lion
There was a distinct murmur of approval from the audience at the Lion theater last night when the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" in the trial of the woman who killed a man who had betrayed the fact to the woman's son, whom she idolized. The play is named "Divorced" and Hilda Spong, the English emotional actress, plays the "woman" and gives a wonderful portrayal of the part. "Divorced" is an excellent attraction and deserves every bit of the praise it has received from those who saw it. This picture will be shown for the last time today and will no doubt draw bigger crowds than on its initial showing yesterday.

Sensation at Lamara
George Scarborough made a sensation with his stage rendition of "At Bay," the splendid play that has been made into an equally strong scenario, and which can be seen again at the Lamara today and tonight. It was produced by George Fitzmaurice, with Florence Reed as the star and a capable cast, including Frank Sheridan, Charles Waldron, Lyster Chambers, De Witt Jennings and others, assist in making the picture an excellent success. Florence Reed is an actress of great personality. She has for several years been one of the Broadway favorites, and in the stage version of "At Bay" she made a great sensation.

At the Coliseum
The Isle of Ish Kalfahide was presented last night for the last time and was witnessed by the usual large crowd that always attends this popular playhouse. This stage was not only a good comedy show but was staged with beautiful scenery and special music. The new bill for tonight is "Clancy's Mishaps," a very funny show, full of good clean comedy. Sponam and Funder, it is claimed, are shown at their best and these two film makers have the reputation of being the two best comedians ever showing in Phoenix. The rest of the company appear at their best. If you are in a mood to laugh attend the Coliseum.
